

Call for Short Term Mission of Students or Early Stage Researchers

Dear BioEM members,

The Society recognizes the important role of young researchers and the added value of students exchange among the different research groups involved in bioelectromagnetic research.

In the framework of the BioEM students support program, and to foster individual mobility of students or early stage researchers worldwide, the BioEM Society is glad to announce the first open call for Short Term Missions with the following schedule:

- Call for application open date: 1 December 2022
- Application deadline: 30 December 2022
- Notification of results: 30 January 2023

Please, consult the call and the application procedure on the BioEM website (<https://www.bioem.org/>), and proceed with the application, if you are interested.

All the best,

Olga Zeni
